ANNEX A

Association of Bartenders & Sommeliers Singapore
Steven Chen, President
"With the F&B industry associations and NTUC-affiliated unions coming together, I hope this synergy will affirm the viability of the professional community's objectives in advocating upskilling and reskilling of the workforce and by sharing the common concerns we face at work, we can learn from each other to promote this challenging industry and to make it more enticing."

Attractions, Resorts and Entertainment Union
Hassan Bin Abdullah, President
"There are many F&B workers amongst the different companies in the hospitality sector, including the attractions, resorts and clubs. AREU as a member of the F&B Professional Community look forward to the collaborative efforts in co-creating various initiatives to help our members upskill and build their career in the F&B profession."

Food and Beverage Management Association, Singapore
Kung Teong Wah, President
"The F&B professional community requires medium and long-term capability, building strategies to elevate our F&B professionals' skills and knowledge. The F&B scene will flourish in the global stage with a solid talent pipeline."

Food, Drinks and Allied Workers Union
"This is the power of NTUC network. Each of us as individual unions and associations have our own domain expertise. But when we come together, our collective learning will magnify many times. Professionals also benefit from sharing and collective wisdom."

Hospitality Purchasing Association (Singapore)
Alex Liau, President
"The professional community platform will allow individuals to rekindle and reignite their potential after dormant years of covid. As F&B concepts diversify and pivot, the hospitality labour force will benefit from retraining to be versatile in the newer new normal."

Singapore Chefs' Association
Eric Neo, President
"The F&B Professional Community is another key milestone for the industry. The professionals coming together, will leverage on each other's strengths and provide support in terms of recruitment, and opportunities to upskill the current talent pool, creating a vibrant environment for F&B professionals."

Singapore Institute of Food Science and Technology
Richard Khaw, President
"We are looking forward to the setting up of this professional community so that we can learn from one other. We hope to let everyone understand more about food science and technology and how we can work together to achieve greater things."

The Singapore Manual & Mercantile Workers' Union
Andy Lim, Secretary-General
"With NTUC, unions, and our industry associations coming together, I believe as a common voice and entity, we can achieve more and do good for our F&B workers. Our workers will surely benefit from the exchange of ideas and resources."
